

Dear Seniors,

The graduating class of 2020 has been sent on a journey unlike any previous high school seniors, and while we are sad that we are unable to complete the year as planned, we are excited to walk with you on this final path to your graduation. Seniors, your school year is not complete. The governor has given districts the authority to determine requirements for senior graduation. We have determined that a Senior Capstone Project will meet the requirements, in conjunction with having earned previously required credits. The purpose of the Senior Capstone Project gives you the opportunity to demonstrate the skills and talents you have developed during your academic career and to explore future college and career possibilities. You will choose a topic that interests you and will allow you to grow in ways that are challenging and thought-provoking. We hope this will be an extremely relevant activity that will also be a strong addition to your resume. Our hope is the significance of the project will have a major influence on your future. Although you may feel a bit overwhelmed at the moment with the size of the task before you, rest assured that by meeting deadlines and making the most of the resources at your disposal (including the support of your teachers), you will have a successful experience that will launch you confidently into your future. Again, Senior Capstone Project will meet the requirements, in conjunction with having earned previously required credits. The school is in the process this week of calling all senior parents to discuss each student's specific requirements. We are looking forward to speaking with each of you. The Bradford family is behind you all the way.

Sincerely,

Dr. Harrison
